

RITE NOW @ ROP

New Experiences in Death Valley

Qualifying House students spent three days and two nights exploring the wonders of Death Valley National Park. They hiked into slot canyons, climbed sand dunes, observed rare fish species, and studied the night sky. Geology, natural history, astronomy, camping skills, and survival skills were integrated into three days of team building and rigorous physical challenges. Learning to support each other, to appreciate your natural surroundings, and to gain confidence in your own abilities were the intangible benefits of our trip!
